

Deciding where to have lunch

- Barbara, I have an important client coming in tomorrow, and I don't know where to take him for lunch.
- Why don't you try the new Italian place downtown? The service is good and the food is delicious.
- Do you think I need a reservation?
- It wouldn't hurt. It gets pretty busy at lunchtime.

Follow-up Questions

1. Imagine the person in the dialog is asking you the same questions about a place in Sao Paulo. Where would you recommend the go?

2. Now, imagine a few different situations. Where would you take these people and why?
 - a. Your in-laws are coming to visit; you want to take them to dinner.

 - b. You will have a breakfast meeting with colleagues next week.

 - c. You would like to invite someone out on a date.